- a) a clarification of the definitions (camping, domestic and contract use) has been taken out of Annex B and put in Clause 3 (which replaces the former Annex B);
- b) test probes and test methods have been replaced; requirements for edges and corners have been modified to take into account accessible parts during use (accessible parts of seating and tables have been defined);
- c) tubular components have been defined; requirements for gaps and holes have been removed;
- d) Annex B (informative) has been included as a rationale to explain the risks covered with the requirements in Clause 5.
